Description

Pair of Victorian silver wine goblets and matching silver wine jug, housed in their original blue velvet-lined oak case. This beautiful and elegant set is hand engraved in fine detail with foliage, grapes and vines while the interiors of the jug and the goblets are gilded. The original oak case, with its fitted lock and swing handle, is original and in excellent presentation condition.

With a name synonymous with quality silverware, George Adams was one of the most important manufacturers of silver cutlery in Victorian London, and participated in the 1851 Great Exhibition and the 1862 International Exhibition.

The height given is for the silver wine jug. The silver goblets are 165 mm (6½") tall.
